

Formal Constitution of Christo et Doctrinae

Article I Name

The formal name of this organization shall be Christo et Doctrinae. It may be abbreviated C&D.

The name derives from Furman's official motto.

Article II Purpose

The purpose of Christo et Doctrinae is to provide a space for intellectual discussion and artistic exploration of the Christian faith, and to serve as a Christian voice to Furman's campus. This will be done by the bi-annual publication of a journal of Christian thought and the maintenance of a website.

Article III Affiliations

Christo et Doctrinae is affiliated with the Augustine Collective, a network of like-minded independent student journals affiliated with universities across the country. While Christo et Doctrinae is independent of the Collective, we submit to their publishing regulations. The Collective also acts as our beneficiary, helping to enable projects and empower students in their enterprises.

Article IV Membership

In keeping with Furman University's non-discrimination policies, membership shall be open to all undergraduate, day students. Our organization will not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, handicap, age, sexual orientation, political affiliation, or religious affiliation.

Article V Officers

The officer titles and their respective duties will be as follows:

Editor in Chief

Managing Editor

Chief of Design

The qualifications for leadership are as follows: the candidate must possess the skill set necessary for the position and be in agreement with the general mission and purpose of Christo et Doctrinae.

Generally, leadership terms will last for two semesters. In some cases, the Editor in Chief may see fit to appoint an officer for an abbreviated term.

Article VI Advisor

The advisor of Christo et Doctrinae will be responsible for guiding and advising the journal's leadership in any relevant matters, including but not limited to the navigation of Furman's policies.

Article VII Meetings

Meetings will be held at minimum once a month at a date and time to be decided by the Editor in Chief after consultation with other officers and members.

Article VIII Finance

Christo et Doctrinae will receive funding as available from Furman University, The Augustine Collective, and donors.

Article IX Amendments

In order for the Constitution to be amended, there must be a consensus between the Editor in Chief, the Managing Editor, and the Chief of Design, as well as a club wide meeting for discussion of the proposed changes. If amongst the members there arises serious objections to the proposed changes and two thirds of the members are not in favor, the change may not be made.

Bylaws

Article I Membership

A member will be anyone who serves as part of the design or editing teams and actively works on the composition of physical editions of the journal. Members will have rights of attendance for all activities facilitated by Christo et Doctrinae. One-time contributors will not qualify as members, nor anyone who does not attend a minimum of sixty percent of the meetings during a semester.

Article II Selection of Officers

The responsibilities of the above enumerated positions of leadership will be as follows:

Editor in Chief – The Editor in Chief will be responsible for the efficient and goal-oriented running of Christo et Doctrinae. The Editor in Chief will oversee all design, editing, and website operations and coordinate between the various aspects of the journal. The Editor in Chief will be responsible for coordinating finance, travel, events, and partnerships. The Editor in Chief will be responsible for communicating with the Augustine Collective and other journals. The Editor in Chief will be responsible for the creation and dissolution of leadership positions and for the delegation of responsibilities. The Editor in Chief will be responsible for maintaining the standards and content regulations for all articles as outlined in the Code of Publication.

Managing Editor – The Managing Editor will be responsible for overseeing the editing team and coordinating the editing of articles. The Managing Editor will be responsible for the maintenance of the website.

Chief of Design – The Chief of Design is responsible for overseeing the design and compilation of physical editions of the journal and for overseeing the design of the website. The Chief of Design will have authority over the design team.

The sitting Editor in Chief shall appoint the succeeding Editor in Chief. The Editor in Chief shall appoint qualified candidates to the roles of Managing Editor, Chief of Design, and Religious Council Representative. The Editor in Chief may create any additional positions of leadership as needs arise.

In the event of a vacancy of any position other than the Editor in Chief, the Editor in Chief will appoint a new officer. In the event of a vacancy of the position of Editor in Chief where no successor has been named, the body of members will elect from amongst themselves a new Editor in Chief by way of simple majority.

In the event that any officer other than the Editor in Chief ought to be removed from office, the Editor in Chief has the power and the obligation to relieve that person of their duties. In the event that the Editor in chief ought to be removed from office, the impeachment must be proposed by either the Managing Editor or the Chief of Design and approved of by two thirds of the general membership.

Article III Selection of Advisor

The advisor shall be selected by the consensus of the Editor in Chief, the Managing Editor, and the Chief of Design. The advisor shall be removed if those mentioned above or two thirds of the general members desire it to be so.

Article IV Committees

Two teams will be henceforth established, the Editing Team and the Design Team. The Editing Team will oversee the editing of all article submissions. The Design Team will oversee the design of the website and physical editions of the journal. Ad-hoc committees or teams will be established as needed by the Editor in Chief.

Article V Rules of Order

Business will be conducted in meetings efficiently and diligently by the Editor in Chief. Internal conflicts will be decided by the Editor in Chief with the consultation of the faculty advisor unless otherwise specified in the constitution.

Article VI Amendments

In order for the bylaws to be amended, there must be a consensus between the Editor in Chief, the Managing Editor, and the Head of Design, as well as a club wide meeting for discussion of the proposed changes. If amongst the members there arises serious objections to the proposed changes and two thirds of the members are not in favor, the change may not be made.