

CONSTITUTION

Article I: Name

The formal name of this organization shall be Furman University Cryptology Club.

Article II: Purpose

The purpose of Furman University Cryptology Club shall be to educate and engage people in the history and methodology of cryptology. We will foster critical thinking and team building through cryptology-based challenges.

Article III: Affiliations

The Furman Math Department

Article IV: Membership

In keeping with Furman University's non-discrimination policies, membership shall be open to all undergraduate, day students. Our organization will not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, handicap, age, sexual orientation, political affiliation, or religious affiliation. Beyond this, anyone who is interested in cryptology is eligible to join the club.

Article V: Officers

We will have a President, Vice President, Secretary, and Social Chair.

To be an officer, you must be in good standing with the club, and have been an engaged member for at least one semester.

Each officer will hold their position for a year (special circumstances will be taken into account for officers who decide to study abroad or take a gap semester. These decisions must be communicated in advance of the semester in question).

Article VI: Advisor

The club advisor will aid in connecting the club with resources beyond Furman University. This may include but is not limited to: suggesting CLP speakers, recommending educational programs/material, or encouraging members to compete in cryptology events. In the event of internal conflicts, the advisor will meet with the social chair and all involved parties to resolve the issue.

Article VII: Meetings

Meetings will be held biweekly and members will be notified if this pattern changes in light of conflicts. Officer meetings will be held monthly.

Article VIII: Finance

Furman University Cryptology Club will receive funding from the Student Government Association and the Furman Math Department.

Article IX: Amendments

Amendments to the constitution will be made by the executive council.

An officer should bring up the amendment in question, with a well-reasoned argument as to why the constitution should be changed during the monthly officer meeting.

If members of the club want to alter the constitution, they should gather a group of at least 5 members and present their argument to an officer, who should then follow the steps above.

During the meeting, three out of four officers (or a simple majority) must agree to the proposed amendment.

BYLAWS

Article I: Membership

There are neither categories of membership nor are there any requirements of members beyond respecting others and being actively engaged in the club.

Members have the right to participate in all club events and represent the Furman University Cryptology Club.

The selection/application process is simply showing interest, and being added to our email list and GroupMe.

For member removal, if a member wants to leave the club, they should notify the presiding secretary, who will then remove them from our communication channels and roster. If a club member is inactive for more than 3 consecutive semesters, they will be removed from current communication channels, but are welcome to return.

Article II: Selection of Officers

All officer positions will be voted on by the members of the club (simple majority needed to win).

President: Organize meetings and special events. Work with the advisor to secure CLPs. Preside over meetings and club sanctioned events. Regularly check in with committee heads.

Vice President: Assist the president in their duties. Present a tentative budget for different events/meetings. Host elections at the end of the Spring semester for the next academic year.

Secretary: Record officer meetings. Keep an active record of the roster.

Social Chair: Publicity for the club, advertise for events, and in charge of social media. Meet with all parties of a conflict to resolve issues.

In the event of a vacancy, the officers can appoint either a member to the position, or they can elect to split the duties of that office amongst themselves. If an officer needs to resign for any reason, we ask that they give the other officers one month's notice to actively prepare for the transition.

To decide upon removing an officer, the case must be brought to the officers and the advisor during the monthly meeting. If the grounds for removal are not challenged or dropped after one month, the officers will vote on the removal (simple majority needed). The president or the most senior of the officers must notify the individual two weeks before their removal if the vote goes through.

Article III: Selection of Advisor

Advisors will be selected based upon their interest in the club and by agreement of the officers. In the event that the advisor needs to step down they must notify the president one month in advance if possible. In the case that an advisor must be removed, the case must be brought to the officers during the monthly meeting. If the grounds for removal are not challenged or dropped after one month, the officers will vote on the removal (simple majority needed). The president must notify the advisor two weeks before their removal if the vote goes through.

Article IV: Committees

Committees shall be established as necessary. To form a committee the president will outline the purpose of the committee as well as the role of being a committee member and allow members of the club to volunteer until the necessary number of members is met. If members of the club wish to form a committee, they can bring it up during regularly scheduled club meetings, or contact the president with their idea.

Article V: Rules of Order

In Person Meetings - In person meetings will begin with the president or advisor giving a brief explanation of the specific cipher for that meeting including some history, as well as rules for encryption and decryption. We will then break into smaller groups and attempt solving some example problems. The advisor and officers can regularly check in with each group and determine the best time to reconvene together. After some time, all of the groups will meet and discuss tactics that worked, as well as those that did not. After discussion, any club related announcements will be made and the meeting will be adjourned.

Online Meetings - Online meetings will be held over zoom and the president or advisor giving a brief explanation of the specific cipher for that meeting including some history, as well as rules for encryption and decryption. We will then use breakout rooms to attempt solving some example problems in groups. The meeting host can regularly check in with each group and determine the best time to reconvene together. After some time, all of the groups will meet and discuss tactics that worked, as well as those that did not. After discussion, any club related announcements will be made and the meeting will be adjourned.

Officer Meetings - The president shall create an agenda for the monthly officer meetings and shall address topics in order. Any officer can propose topics for the meeting. Topics include but are not limited to: finances, schedules, upcoming events, proposing new events, proposing amendments, voting on amendments.

Internal conflicts will be resolved outside of meeting times. Involved parties will meet with the social chair and advisor to work through the conflict.

Article VI: Amendments

Amendments to the bylaws will be made by the club as a whole.

Any member can bring up the bylaw in question, with a well-reasoned argument as to why the bylaws should be changed during a regularly scheduled meeting or address the bylaw with the officers.

The amendment will be presented at the next meeting where the club will vote (anonymously) to determine the outcome (simple majority yay or nay).
