Organizations may not address a member's violations of university policy via internal standards boards or other accountability mechanisms without prior approval of the Dean of Students Office. Conduct expectations unique to membership in the organization and that do not overlap or otherwise interfere with university authority may be addressed with the written approval of the AVP/Dean of Students or designee. Groups affiliated with national organizations that have established guidance and procedures over disciplinary matters, may follow the directive of those national organizations with regard to member conduct but must do so with written approval of the university.

To address alleged member conduct that does not violate university policy (e.g. meeting attendance, enrollment status, upholding organization mission, etc.), organizations should work with their faculty or staff advisor to develop a process for addressing such behavior that is fair and equitable. This process should be clearly outlined in your bylaws. Student organizations with concerns about the behavior of a member should submit a report through one of the various reporting options offered by the University.
