

FURMAN UNIVERSITY BEE AND POLLINATOR CLUB CONSTITUTION

Article 1: Name

The name of this organization will be the Furman University Bee and Pollinator Club, or simply the Furman University Bee Club (FUBC)

Article 2: Purpose

The purpose of this organization shall be to support the upkeep of Furman's on campus Honey-Bee hive(s) through training members to inspect the health and wellbeing of the hive. The club will employ members to participate in community outreach programs to share the necessity of pollinators as well as introduce programs to Furman's campus to make the grounds more bee and pollinator friendly. This club will also harvest honey from its hives each season, alongside efforts to expand the operation with newer equipment, more hives, etc.

Article 3: Affiliations

This organization will be supported by the department of Sustainability and the David E. Shi Center for Sustainability here at Furman University.

Article 4: Membership

Membership into this organization will be open to any and all who desire to aid in the current pollinator decline, want to learn more about sustainability in relation to pollinators, and just want to support positive environmental changes. Membership will not be limited solely to those nonallergic to bees as direct contact with the animals will be optional. In keeping with Furman University's non-discrimination policies, membership shall be open to all undergraduate, day students. Our organization will not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, handicap, age, sexual orientation, political affiliation, or religious affiliation.

Article 5: Officers

This organization's leadership will consist of the President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Field Manager, Safety Manager, and Publicity Agent. In an important distinction, the Field Manager and Safety manager roles will be reserved for members in advisory positions. This includes faculty advisors, as well as student members in mentoring/advising positions within the club. This committee will be supported by the faculty sponsor and may meet as an executive board with said sponsor outside of normal meeting times.

- a) The president will supervise over any and all club meetings and events. The vice-president will be required to assist with presidential duties and aid in leading meetings. Both the president and vice-president will share any secretarial responsibilities necessary for operation of the club. The treasurer will have to manage and record the club's finances, due management, make financial statements, and allocate funds. The field manager will be required to attend all outdoor events to ensure projects are completed within the proper timeframe and with the goal in mind. While the safety manager will be required to attend every outdoor event and every hive inspection to ensure proper safety regulations are upheld when dealing with potentially dangerous animals such as honeybees. And finally, the publicity agent will help set up outreach tables/programs, as well as create materials to spread the word regarding our club and its goals.

- b) To gain full membership one must attend the majority of club meetings and field events for a full semester. Any full member is welcomed to run for an officer position.
- c) Officers will be voted in towards the end of the spring semester by a majority vote of every full member within the club, or by the overriding unanimous appointment made by the current advisory members. Each candidate will have an opportunity, if they so choose, to present a brief speech regarding their potential position and why they would be a good choice.
- d) After being voted in officers will begin their responsibilities in a timely manner as deemed appropriate by the elected member in question and current executive and advisory members, and will serve until the next voting session. There is no limit on the number of times an individual can run for and hold a position, even when appointed.
- e) If an officer is unable to fulfill their responsibilities the club's members or advisory council may call for an impeachment vote. The officer shall be removed if more than 75% of the club votes in favor for said impeachment and an emergency vote and or appointment will be held in a later meeting to promote a member into the now vacant position. In the event members choose not to or fail to cast their vote, they will be excluded from the vote's total member count.

Article 6: Advisor

While the advisor(s) is welcomed and invited to attend any and all meeting and events, it is requested they express their interests to the executive board. All executives will have a meeting with the advisor throughout the semester to discuss operation of the club.

Article 7: Meetings

Club meetings will be held on a date deemed appropriate for its purpose on a case-by-case base unless announced by executive board. Multiple times a month, ideally weekly, following the meeting participating members will report to the Furman Solar Farm to inspect the hives.

Article 8: Finances

The club will receive funding from SGA funding and honey sales (alongside any other fundraising activities), collected by the treasurer and or advisory staff, coordinated and managed by the treasurer.

Article 9: Amendments

Should any amendments need to be made to this document, executive council must consult advisory council, and those changes will then be put to a vote for current members, no specific percentage of population is required, as long as a reasonable amount of positive engagement is observed alongside a profound lack of concern and or criticism, as determined by advisory council.

BILAWS

Article 1: Membership

Membership is open to every Furman University student regardless of personal background. The sole requirement for full membership is participation and interest. Removal of a member will take place after inappropriate actions, such as violent threats and actions, disrespect of a fellow member, and other action, but not limited to, those not condoned by Furman University. The member in question will be placed within a hearing with the executives and advisors to determine the length of removal.

Article 2: Selection of Officers

Officers will be selected at the end of every spring term with an election/appointment process, the member receiving the most votes or is chosen by advisory members for their running position will receive the title. Should there remain a vacancy in position the executives and advisors will host another election/appointment process to fill the position with personal recommendations. The removal of an officer uses the same guidelines for the removal of a full member.

Responsibilities:

The president will supervise over any and all club meetings and events. The vice-president will be required to assist with presidential duties and aid in leading meetings. Both the president and vice-president will share any secretarial responsibilities necessary for operation of the club. The treasurer will have to manage and record the club's finances, due management, make financial statements, and allocate funds. The field manager will be required to attend all outdoor events to ensure projects are completed within the proper timeframe and with the goal in mind. While the safety manager will be required to attend every outdoor event and every hive inspection to ensure proper safety regulations are upheld when dealing with potentially dangerous animals such as honeybees. And finally, the publicity agent will help set up outreach tables/programs, as well as create materials to spread the word regarding our club and its goals.

Article 3: Selection of Advisor

The advisor of the Furman Bee Club will be selected from faculty within the EES, SUS, or BIO departments, or the Shi Center for Sustainability, the sponsor will be chosen based on their knowledge and interest in environmental issues regarding honeybees and other pollinators. Student advisors will also be chosen to serve in the council, including past members and officers who showed great promise, interest, and capabilities in order to educate new members and oversee the executive council.

Article 4: Committees

A total of 2 councils will be established within this club and will comprise those members elected and or appointed to the roles:

- a) Executive council – Responsible for all officer responsibilities in their respective roles as previously outlined within this document.
- b) Advisory council – Members as previously defined within this document, appointed by current advisory members.

The board of executives will decide and vote on any addition/ad-hoc committees if required or desired.

Article 5: Rules of Order

Business will first be conducted during executive and advisor team meetings and then addressed and discussed during the full member meetings. Internal conflicts will be resolved within the executive board and further handled by advisory board members if necessary.

Article 6:

Should any amendments need to be made to this document, executive council must consult advisory council, and those changes will then be put to a vote for current members, no specific percentage of population is required, as long as a reasonable amount of positive engagement is observed alongside a profound lack of concern and or criticism, as determined by advisory council.